

BLOCK Y CLUB HANDLES
MORNING ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

HELEN SWENSON PRESENTS
SWEATERS TO FOOTBALL
MEN; MUSICAL NUMBERS ARE FEATURE.

As one of the features of Block "Y" Day, a splendid program, sponsored by the club, under the direction of Vernal Worthington, general chairman of the day's activities, was presented during the devotional period this morning.

A string quartette, consisting of Verda Bachelor, Lenore Crookston, Gail Bachelor and Wanda Petty, played the first number.

Prayer was offered by Harold Candland.

June Jackson then sang President Emeritus Brimhall's new song, "I Love You Utah Valley," which has been set to music by Prof. Hanson. This was the first rendition of the song before the student body.

A. Rex Johnson spoke briefly, but to the point on the "Connection of the Block 'Y' Club to the School."

A number was played by the woodwind quartet, and a vocal duet, "The Utah Trail," was sung by Rulon Shepherd and Lorin Miles.

As a special feature of the program the awards were presented to the football men by Miss Helen Swenson, representing the student body.

The concluding number was a selection from the band, under the direction of Professor Sauer.

PALEONTOLOGICAL
SOCIETY DISPLAY
SET UP IN ROOM D

The display in Room "D" recently set up in the plaster paris cast by Prof. George Hansen, is one of the Hairy Mammoth or Elephas Primigenius which was found by Rollo Vest and William Bowen, September 17, 1928, two miles east of Payson at the city gravel pits. This elephant lived (perhaps 50,000 years ago) when the waters of Lake Bonneville covered Provo to a depth of several hundred feet. The portions brought over from Payson are two tusks, an upper and lower tooth, jaw bone from which teeth were taken, portions of ribs, and the tibia and fibula; although the latter two haven't as yet been set up.

There are also displays of the family Dinotherium, which is the most primitive form found, the family mastodon and the present day elephant. Portions of this display came from the Desert Museum, formerly located in Salt Lake City.

More material is coming and displays are to be made of the Paleontological remains.

Final Debate Tryouts
To Be Held at 4:30

Everyone is urged to attend the final debate tryouts to be held Friday at 4:30 in the faculty room. The purpose is to select nine men for the varsity debating teams, out of which a two-man team will be chosen to go to California.

The question for debate is, "Resolved, that a substitute for trial by jury should be adopted." The subject is one of much interest, and a good representation at the tryouts is expected.

The tryouts will consist of five minute speeches and two minute rebuttals and will be on either side of the subject that the contestant chooses. All the men of the school have an opportunity of entering.

LEWIS BROWNE TO GIVE LYCEUM NUMBER

AUTHOR OF "THIS BELIEVING WORLD" TO SPEAK SATUR-DAY NIGHT IN COLLEGE
HALL.

Lewis Browne, author of "This Believing World" and "Stranger Than Fiction," is the next lecturer on the Lyceum course. He comes next Saturday and will speak on the subject "This Believing World." There has been no intimation of what his lecture will include but judging it by the book of the same title it appears that he will speak on the religions of the world.

Mr. Browne is admirably equipped for such a subject. He was early educated as Rabbi in the Jewish church and spent several years in this service. While he was a Rabbi, he was also a student of humanity. Although busily engaged in the ministry, he found the time and opportunity to go off with migratory workers, to labor in lumber camps, and steel mills. He also wrote widely for current periodicals.

Finally he left the ministry altogether. Since that time he has traveled extensively, always studying the religious thought of the nations that he visited.

His lecture will be held in College Hall at eight o'clock.

Inter-Social Unit Body
Makes Re-Affiliations

At a meeting of the inter-social unit council, held Wednesday, the following re-affiliations were made: Val Hyries, No. 15—Henry Stewart. Olympus, No. 7—Milton Jones.

Hilgardia, No. 27—Neal A. Olegin and Lester Whetten.

Tausig, No. 3—Raymond Hart, Oswald Coombs, Clifford Toone and Theodore Toone.

LADY MISSIONARIES
ORGANIZE CLUB

A unique organization was begun Monday evening when all lady missionaries who have attended the B. Y. U. met and elected their officers.

Mrs. Inez Knight Allen was elected president. The first and second vice-presidents elected were Mrs. J. Wm. Knight and Miss Winifred Cruickshank respectively. Miss Ruth Ellsworth was chosen recording secretary and treasurer, while Miss Vera Sowards was elected corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Knight were the first lady missionaries sent by the church, and their election to these offices is just a continuing of their success along this line.

A committee for drafting a constitution and by-laws was chosen under the chairmanship of Miss Pearl Snow. While the organization will be separate from the Friars the two will cooperate in activities and service common to both groups.

Suggestions are requested from the student body as to a suitable name for this organization. These suggestions will be received by both Miss Ellsworth and Miss Sowards. The names should suggest the type and aims of the organization and be short.

NO PROGRAMS FOR
'29 JUNIOR PROM

The junior prom, according to Mr. Stewart Anderson, chairman of the committee, is going to be different this year. One feature that will make for this difference is that programs will be done away with entirely. The old custom of getting the program ahead of time and lining up each dance in a cut and dried fashion is fast meeting disfavor among those who attend fine parties with the idea of deriving the keenest enjoyment therefrom. To carry this idea still further it is suggested that dances are not traded ahead at all, rather exchange any particular dance as the music for it commences.

Any student who desires to have friends invited to the Prom may have it done by handing their names to a member of the prom committee. Tickets will be on sale at a date to be announced later. The price will be three dollars per couple.

HONOR ORGANIZATION
HOLDS INITIATION

Initiations for the Block "Y" Club will be held next week. Starting Monday the initiations will occupy the entire week and end Saturday with a feed given by the skunks to the old members. The skunks will wear the traditional cap but they will not carry the paddle that has heretofore been part of their costume. There are about fifteen who have signed their intention of joining the organization.

Karl Bunnell has been appointed to supervise the activities of the men, while the lady skunks will be presided over by Caroline Eyring.

BLOCK Y CLUB WILL SPONSOR DANCE

One of the most unique socials ever held in the Ladies' Gym will take place Friday evening, when the Block "Y" Club sponsors the student body dance.

Vernal Worthington, the general chairman of the day, announces that the general theme of the dance will be carried out around the awards given by the school to those who participate in inter-collegiate activities.

To this end special decorations and programs have been ordered.

The dances sponsored by this organization have been a feature for the past few years. Last year, under the leadership of Lowell Biddulph, the club took over the Hallowe'en dance. The ghostly intermission and the refreshments served on this occasion will be remembered by all present.

As always, there will be no additional charge for this dance.

Oregon State Starts
Yell-Master's Class

U. of OREGON—The class in yell leading had its first session in the gym last night. Several promising men reported to Dave Williams, varsity yell leader. Jerry Clark and Bob Christensen, assistant yell leaders, aided Williams in teaching the fundamentals of the yell leading game.

The class meets every Thursday evening in the men's gymnasium and is open to sophomores and freshmen, who are urged to turn out. Candidates will have a chance to show their ability at basketball games and at convocations. Six men will be picked and placed on the ballot at the spring elections. Two of these will be elected assistant yell leaders for the coming year.

The class in yell leading was organized by Al Serpa, former yell king. It has become very popular and serves as a method of selecting assistant yell leaders.

Friars Club Elects
Temporary Officers

Friars, formerly known as the Y. D. D. Club on the "Y" campus, held their first business meeting Monday, February 4, in the Little Theatre.

Preliminary initiations were conducted by President Alton Melville, Llewellyn McKay, and Royal Garff, all of the University of Utah chapter.

Temporary officers were elected to manage the business and various activities of the "Y" club until April, when the election of officers will be held at the annual convention in Salt Lake City. Those chosen were: Harold C. Candland, chairman, and Ruel E. Christensen, secretary and treasurer.

Each of the thirty members present received a pledge pin which identifies them as "Friars." Just notice some of them.

Plans are already under way for a unique program which promises to be of unusual interest, both to club members and the student body.

MRS. PEARL DECKER READS
AT HIGH SCHOOL ASSEMBLY

A very effective reading of "Sohrab and Rustum" was given by Mrs. Pearl Decker and enjoyed by all high school students, Wednesday morning during the regular devotional period.

One selection from the high school chorus was enjoyed before prayer, which was offered by Ann Beardall.

BASKETBALL TEAM IS READY FOR INVASION OF UTE CAMPTRIANGLE DEBATE
TEAMS WILL MAKE
TOUR OF STATE

Next week the triangle debating teams in conjunction with teams from the University of Utah and Utah Agricultural College, will make a tour of the state, debating the question, "Resolved, that Utah should adopt a classified property tax."

The affirmative team from Young University, composed of Glenn Dickson and Vernon Wentz, and paired with a negative team from Salt Lake, will be in Lehi Thursday night and American Fork Saturday night. They may go into Wasatch county the following week.

The "Y" negative team, composed of Elroy Nelson and Don Cluff, paired against an affirmative team from Logan will be in Nephi Monday night, Moroni on Wednesday, Payson on Thursday and Spanish Fork on Friday night.

The teams from Brigham Young will debate each other Saturday, February 23, at Springville, in conjunction with the Dairy Show to be held there.

Henry Jones To Rattle
On Tour Into Texas

Henry Jones, veteran welterweight grappler, a former student and now a wrestling instructor in the Cougar camp, has left for El Paso, Texas, where he is billed for a feature match tonight against Joe Perelli, one of Texas' leading wrestlers. Henry has engagements arranged at Big Springs and Amarillo.

Soon after the completion of the Texas conquest Henry plans to go to Chicago. Negotiations are now under way to match him with Gus Kallio, his old rival of the Windy City.

Floating University
Idea Open to Summer
School Students

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—A series of six College Tours to Europe, announced today by Dr. James E. Lough, at 285 Madison Avenue, New York City, opens his "floating university" idea this summer to students and teachers, many of whom are unable to join the annual College World Cruise in the winter. Delphi, Athens, Rome and Venice now serve as classrooms for students of Ancient History, for on each tour, college and professional courses in art, literature, economics, geography and history are given by well-known professors, and carry full academic credit.

The cost of these travel study tours is no higher than other moderate priced tours without this educational feature. Thus the price of the French Residence Tour with 52 days of intensive study in French literature and conversation is only $485.00. Students and teachers who desire to register for this summer school abroad and to receive college or professional credit for their courses should communicate with Dr. Lough.

'Y' News vs. Banyan

Will it never end? Just because two editors of years gone by thought that they could amuse the student body by trying to work up a little rivalry between the Banyan and "Y" News those that come after have thought that it was a good old B. Y. U. tradition and in accordance with that tradition they have "carried on." The result is that Monday noon the two publications will meet in another basketball game. The lineups are unknown, dope on the two teams is impossible to find but whoever wins won't deserve it. The game will be played, though, and if you have nothing else to do it will be worth seeing.

UTAH IS PRIMED FOR FRAY
AFTER A TWO WEEK'S LAY-
OFF; FAST GAMES IN PROS-PECT.

The Young Cougars reach a crucial point in their campaign for state and conference hoop honors this week-end when they meet the formidable Redskins at their native haunt. If they pass this point successfully the way will have been paved for state honors to come to Brigham Young this year, and will set the Blue shirts along their way for a conference Western division championship.

Everything is most optimistic in the camp of the Cougar invaders on the eve of their encounter; none of the regular combination appear to have even so much as a "charlie horse" to hamper their efforts for those Waterloo contests. The Youngsters are expected to be at their prime condition for these games, after showing increased effectiveness in their Farmer scrimmage last week-end.

The Utes, on the other hand, can be counted on as being much stronger than they were in their last games with the Young hoopers. Their lack of many pre-season battles left them in early season form at that time, but their conference games augmented by intense workouts during each week should put them at a peak of training form. Although it is a lamentable condition, so far as the Utes are concerned at least, that Ralph Goodwin may be on the bench for these games, due to a chemical injury sustained several days ago.

A defensive system that will stop the whirlwind scoring of Jerry Smith, who mugged up the "Y" leads so effectively in their last skirmish, must be worked (Continued on page 3)

Manager Of Telephone Company Talks in Devotional

In his address to the student body Wednesday morning, J. Rex Miller, district manager of the telephone company, and former student of the B. Y. U., gave an interesting account of the development of the telephone since its invention, fifty years ago.

He stated that only a few years ago the telephone was a novelty, and that it had increased from being used only in large business houses to an instrument of necessity in every home.

The switchboards have been perfected, causing a clearer sound over the phone. Long distance service has been made more practical since the invention of the telephone repeater.

According to Mr. Miller, the telephone company is divided into three main parts; the plant, used in making equipment for service, the traffic department, which operates, and the commercial department, which keeps the business sound.

The Bell Company is at present, laying cables across the ocean, which will soon be used in place of the radio service in transmitting telephone messages, said Mr. Miller.

In concluding, he invited all who wished, to visit the telephone office and see the business in operation.

The mixed chorus sang "Unfold Ye Portals" as the opening number. Professor Sauer offered the invocation.

"I certainly would like to get something to stop those mosquito bites." "Have you ever tried clothing?" —Ghost.

Those who roll the eye Usually eye the roll.

THE BLOCK "Y" CLUB

The "Y" News this issue has been edited under the general supervision of the Block "Y" Club. This club is an organization of those men and women in the school who have won the right to wear the block "Y" through inter-collegiate competition. The group was first formed in 1922. At this time it was announced that the purpose of the club was to foster and keep alive the traditions of Brigham Young University. It was also to serve as a social group.

Since that time it has been working quietly to fulfill these two functions. With the introduction of the social unit system a year ago, however, the need of the club in a social capacity vanished. Other methods of recreation were found and those men who already belonged to a social unit were unwilling to join the Block "Y" Club because they could see no need for it in their lives.

Such a view, is however, a shallow one. It fails to consider the primary reason for the club's formation, that of fostering and stimulating B. Y. tradition. Any student who remains out of the club because he already has sufficient social affiliations is, in a way, falling down in a duty that he owes to the school.

With the coming of new students many of our traditions are apt to be forgotten. As the Bible has it, "A new Pharaoh rose who knew not Joseph." Such a condition will ultimately mean the extinction of much that we cherish. And such a condition will arise unless there is a link to connect the old to the new. Such a link is the Block "Y" Club. The club has a history that is rich in the lore of student life and it hands on to its new members for them to give to the school at large, a heritage of tradition that might well be the envy of any college in the country.

You students who are eligible to join the club and haven't are missing a rare opportunity to continue to do for the school that which you started when you won your block "Y."

OUR TROPHIES

One thing that distinguishes a college from a nation is that while all of a nation's history is recorded and held up before the public view a college merely keeps a record of its victories and allows the defeats to die a quiet death and pass into oblivion. A college is usually given a cup or a pennant when it is a winner and there are no booby prizes. So that a visitor is shown a collection stating that Podunk won this in 1920, and that in 1921, and he goes away saying, "What a fine school is Podunk."

The one thing that differentiates between Brigham Young University and Podunk is that while we have as fine a record as Podunk or any other school in the country we give neither the visitors or ourselves a chance to see it.

Our trophies are treated as though they represent a past that should be lived down. They have been driven from pillar to post until the cups are bent and scratched and tarnished, the pennants have been laid away in various places until they are faded and torn. At the present time some of the cups lie forgotten in a corner of the Banyan office under a pile of old prints and negatives. Three of the cups adorn the top of the "Y" News editor's desk in company with an old tin cup of a quart capacity. One pile of the pennants representing track and wrestling victories repose in a corner of the student body office to be used as a seat when all the chairs are in use or when someone desires a softer resting place than that furnished by the regular office furniture.

Such a situation is a disgrace to the school, an insult to those who have gone before, and what is worse, an indication of a degree of indolence that, while expected in college students of current novels, should not be tolerated in a school that desires to carry its head high in self-respect.

The Block "Y" Club in following its purpose of keeping alive B. Y. U. traditions and ideals is working on a plan to secure a proper place to display our tokens of victory. The club, however, is faced by the stone wall indifference of the student body. The club is doing its best but its work will be materially aided if the students will wake up to the situation and see that something is done.

Claws and Scratches

Of course being a church school we wouldn't have to pay the boys more than the regular thirty cents an hour for Sunday work.

Some social unit might finance itself by taking over a matinee dance. This would be much easier than collecting dues.

School is a place to study. For instance: Lyceum Monday night, Mutual Tuesday night, "The Swan" Thursday night, Student body dance Friday night, and Lyceum again on Saturday.

Tit for tat if Utah installs the Friars here let's install a chapter of the Nuggets at Salt Lake.

Gosh! What some people won't do for a little publicity.

The Tausig scholarship cup must have been replevined for non-payment.

What a sad reflection it is on the student body that the man to whom they gave the fewest votes turned out to be the worst reprobate.

We wonder if the tux Roy Gibbons wears in the picture posted for the representative student contest is representative of the new order of things at the B. Y. U.?

Some of the girls on the Banyan staff seem to earn their awards by keeping the editor in a good humor.

Pity the poor senior that asked his girl to the Prom before he found out that he would have to pay like any other common student.

"Who Killed Rock Kobin"

EDITOR'S NOTE—Fair and noble readers, we ask you to bear in mind that this story is not written or published with any motive of revenge, but merely to give you a taste of Mr. Goyle's most delightful literary achievement.

A Defective Story in Many Parts
By A. COMMON GOYLE

Gene S. Plotter has been arrested for the murder of Rock Kobin! Lewis K. George has been cleared of the crime! His desire for the sensational type of photographs had led him to color a knife red and go with his camera to the scene of the crime and attempt to take a picture. It was not with the thought of deceiving the public, but merely to have the pictures in his own collection to enlarge upon the story of the crime in a piece of fiction that he was working on at the time. Having a natural nose for pictures and sensational stuff, he had worked himself in upon the scene, and when caught in Scotland's house he had taken refuge in the attic because discovery at that time would have spoiled his plans. Now that his chance had vanished he was quite concerned when he found that Plotter had been arrested.

William Crimson had returned from a fruitless search for his friend Plotter when Julius Bunk met him in the News office.

"It seems that they have a clear case against Plotter," Bunk worried, "They have been looking up his past record and it seems that he has led a wild sort of career. It is definitely known that he lived down in the regions where Spanish villages outnumbered the white and that he had a failing for the Spanish type of beauty, therefore, it seems that the motive was jealousy over Kobin's girl Dolores. She used to go with Plotter, you know. He has a large bowie knife in his dresser drawer in his apartment. They also found a number of guns. He refuses to give an account of himself at the time of day that the crime was committed."

"But we know that he couldn't have done it," objected Crimson. "He was with—"

"Sh-h-h!" Julius looked nervously about. "Someone might hear you and there's no need of anyone knowing that we—"

"Of course there's no use, but we can't let him be dragged into court this way and you never can tell, they might prove something on him from circumstantial evidence and then look where we would be."

The door opened and in walked Curlock Dolmes, followed by Big Dick, Snoopin and Wantson.

"Well, boys," said Dick, "the jig's up. You can either confess now or wait until you see your lawyer. What do you know about the murder of Rock Kobin?"

The two men looked at each other. "We know nothing," asserted Bunk after a moment's hesitation.

"Is that all you have to say, too?" asked Dick of Crimson.

Crimson nodded. "Very well," said Dick, pulling out a pair of handcuffs, "Will you come peaceably or do you want to wear the bracelets?"

"Aw, they won't get away," said Wantson, "There's no use having them march down the street like a pair of criminals. Let's leave them here with Dick to guard while we go and talk with the school authorities."

"I'll take care of these youngsters," bragged Dick. "Go ahead and consider your men as good as in jail."

"Now, boys," continued Dick, after the others had left. "Just make yourselves at home and don't worry; Big Dick will just chaperone this little party."

He tipped his chair back toward the table as he reached in his pocket for a match and a cigar. Before his chair had touched the table a long arm hooked itself about his throat and a black cloth covered his eyes. He attempted to shout and struggle but could do nothing. Crimson and Bunk leaped on him and in a few seconds he was securely fastened with his own handcuffs. When he had been gagged the two young men straightened up and both held out their hands to their deliverer, and Lewis K. George, grinned broadly as he said, "Well, I guess it was a good thing that I dropped in when I did. I lost a screw out of my camera and I had crawled under the table and over behind the desk to get it when you boys entered, so I just kept still and said nothing as I wanted to hear what the news was. I was in a good position to hook old Dick off his balance and render him helpless. The next thing to do is to get out of here and find the guy who killed Kobin or it looks like Plotter is sunk and we'll be implicated for tampering with the law and justice."

"Let's be off," chorused Bunk and Crimson, as George reached up and opened the window.

"This will be the best way out, and I have a car out in the road waiting to get us away."

"What'll we do?" said Crimson, as they climbed into the car.

"We gotta hide until after tonight, then if there is anything in spirits we will know who killed Kobin."

"How's that?" asked Bunk.

"Well," said George, "you know how strong Sir Conan Doyle is for spirits? Well, Dolmes hasn't done anything since he came but nose around, and now he states that tonight he has a famous spiritualist coming here who will try and produce the spirit of Kobin and they'll get the information first hand as to who killed him."

"Aw, bologna," sneered Bunk. "There isn't anything to that stuff."

"You might be fooled," said George. "We'll stop at Plotter's apartment and grab some grub and then I'll have Tom drive the car back to the big city. We'll remain in hiding."

"Where in the dickens will we hide?" asked Bunk.

"Where they won't find us," grinned George. "We'll stay there until tonight and be all set for the revelation."

"Stay where?" demanded Crimson.

George grinned, "In the only place they won't look for us, the ladies' rest room."

"Good!" exclaimed Bunk. "I sure need a rest."

A short time later three shadowy figures munched crackers and dried beef in the ladies' rest room, wondering who Killed Rock Kobin and also what the janitor would say.

Voting In Banyan Contest Is Close

Voting on the finals for the representative student contest for the Banyan started last Wednesday. So far a great deal of interest has been manifested by the student body and balloting has been brisk.

No announcement will be made as to who the final winners are until the Banyan is published next spring. Al Smith who is in charge of the contest, reports that the entries are very close and that it is still any man's race.

SQUAD B TAKES FINAL GAME FROM L. D. S. HOOPSTERS

In their last game of the season the "B" squad basketball team of the Young University, staged a sensational rally to take a 43-35 victory from the L. D. S. junior college five in the 'Y' gym Tuesday afternoon.

The Saints opened up with an offensive that swept the 'Y' team off their feet and at the end of the first half the invaders had a 27-18 lead.

In the second half, though, the cougars had a new lease on life and by the end of the third quarter they were out in front by one point. During the last period they slowly increased this lead and soon had a comfortable margin. In this quarter the 'Y' team used the semi-stalling play that has been such a favorite on the Provo courts this winter. The Saints seemingly were unable to fathom it and the Cougars garnered several baskets with play.

Bernard Walker, a man who has been pushing for a place on the "A" squad all season was the outstanding man of the game. He not only was high point man of the game with 14 counters but he played the floor in matchless style. Jensen and West also looked good for the winners while Bailey and Olsen did some excellent work for the invaders.

Pandoras Take Close Game From Fidelas

In a closely fought game last Monday night, the girls of the Pandora social unit defeated the Fidelas by a 15-14 score, the entire score of the winners being made in the last half of the game.

This fact does not tell the entire story of the fight, since the Pandoras outplayed their opponents in floorwork in the first half, only to lose the ball to the guards when the forwards failed to reach the basket. At the half, the Pandoras juggled their lineup several times until a smooth working combination was found, with Ruth Johnson at forward. In the last quarter Ruth went on a scoring spree and garnered twelve points, thus allowing her team to win in scoring as well as floorwork. Helen Allemen proved herself a scrappy guard and Anne Price played true to her usual form and upheld the center position in exceptional style. For the losers Jo Sanford at guard, Alberta Mendenhall and Edna Dixon at forwards were the stars.

SWIMMING TEAM ROUNDING INTO MIDSEASON FORM

Lovers of the old aquatic sport are booked for another season of real enjoyment, if they follow the flashy 'Y' team.

Coach Leaf's "Y" tankmen are in prime condition, as will be shown when the Brigham Young University and the University of Utah, meet the Northwestern University in a triangular contest, to be held in Salt Lake City, February 20th.

The probable representatives of the B. Y. U. will be Bud Shields, Merrill Christopherson, Ferron Lossee, and Lawrence Peterson.

The Northwestern University is represented by the following: Colbath, Hinch, Miller, Schwartz, Peterson, Wicks, Comode and Lennox.

Be it remembered that Schwartz is the man defeated by Bud Shields in the National 220-yard race in Philadelphia.

The following is the schedule the B. Y. U. tank stars will follow this season:

B. Y. U. vs. Utah Aggies at Logan, February 23.

B. Y. U. vs. U. of U. at Provo, on March 2, Western Division Conference Meet at Logan, March 8 and 9.

Girls' Basketball Contests Draw Large Audience

At the close of the first round of the girls' inter-social unit basketball schedule, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, a very interesting survey can be made of the popularity of the hoop sport among the fair sex of this university.

Not only have a majority of the social units turned out en masse and backed their teams, but a fairly good brand of basketball is being exhibited by almost untrained players. Girl casaba tossers of ability are usually in the minority, but this tournament has shown that the reason for this fact is the usual lack of interest because there is no stimulus for girls who are not specializing in physical education. Girls of the social units who have turned out for these games have expressed their interest and desire to play more and better basketball in the future.

Because of this enthusiasm intramural basketball has come to stay, and the student body is becoming more and more interested. At the last several games a large number of spectators have been present, and the girls appreciate the fact that their sport is becoming popular enough to merit the presence of an audience. Heretofore the girls' games have been more or less exclusive because the audiences do not understand the difference between girls' and boys' basketball, and become criticizing which is a disadvantage to the players. As long as the student body in general will continue to show their recent enthusiasm, they are invited to attend these games. The semi-finals and the finals of the tournament will be held the next week or two and as the inferior teams are eliminated an especially good brand of collegiate basketball will be exhibited by the survivors. The audiences will be well repaid for their attendance at these games.

The teams to play next week are as follows: Monday night, February 11—Nautilus vs. Deca Semi Fe. Beaux Arts vs. Pandoras.

These teams are the winners in the semi-finals. Later in the week the losers will play off the consolation tournament, the following teams competing: O. S. Travata vs. Val Norn; Zel Men Ha vs. Fidelas.

Freshmen Football Men Get Sweaters At Matinee Dance

One of the largest crowds to ever attend a matinee dance paid its admission to the two hour social sponsored by the freshman class last Wednesday.

The feature of the dance was the awarding of sweaters to thirty-four freshmen football men. Alberta Mendenhall gave the coveted trophies to the following men: Willis Candland, Antone Clark, Oswald Coombs, Paul Haddock, Truman Hall, Horace Hardy, Ray Hart, Smith Jacobs, Louis Johnson, William Jones, Ralph Kitchen, Vaughan Livingston, George Manson, Elmo Martin, Fred Miner, Eugene Nelson, Pearl Pollard, Clement Prince, Fenton Prince, Leo Probert, Marvin Skousen, George Staples, Clyde Summerhays, Clifford Toone, Francis Van Leuven, Bernard Walker, Glenn Wilkenson, James Wright, Lynn Halverson, Lorenzo McGregor, Morris Christensen, Lawrence Wilson, Robert Yorgenson, and Paul Ripple.

ROMNEY SPEAKS AT FRESHMAN MEETING

Last Monday the Freshman class held an unusual meeting. Miss Helen Beck and Miss Wilma Micklesen did two tap dancing numbers that were enthusiastically received. Coach Ott Romney, in a stirring talk, convinced all doubting Frosh of the glory of their football heroes and the fact that they owed them a reward. After a few admonitions concerning class cards and other matters by class president, Mark Eggertsen, and a few rousing cheers by the class, peanuts were distributed. The meeting was then adjourned.

Standing of Girl Forwards in Basket Ball Tournament

The scoring records for the forwards in the girls' intra-mural basketball contest are as follows: For those who are not acquainted with the game as the women play it, we will say that only forwards are allowed to score. Hence, the absence of records for those playing other positions.

Our Haul of Blame

WHAT PRICE GLORY

Our beloved Cougar Quartette and its director may feel that they are too good to be classed as alumni of our school, but somehow when "Y" students read in the Los Angeles Times and various music magazines about the Cougar Quartette being composed of University of Utah students, and the director, who is on leave of absence from the "Y," being voluntarily listed as coming from the State University, we sometimes wonder what has become of their "talked of" loyalty.

We cannot feel that these five people will gain anything by this deceptive publicity, and we also know that the host of friends these students have left are sadly disappointed. We might suggest that they change the name of the quartette to the "Redskin Four."

Friend—By the way, how's your husband?
 Actress—I hear he never looked better.

First Trout—You should have seen the worm that I caught today.

Second Trout—Yes, but the one that I had and got away from me was the biggest that I ever saw in my life.

Girls once rejected a man because of his weak chin. Now it's his weak grin.

"Why Cook When Brainy?" Say Co-eds

Although the modern college girl is intelligent, cultured, capable and industrious, she is not a great success as a home-maker, wife or mother.

This opinion is one advanced by Prof. Annie Louise Macleod, dean of the college of home economics at Syracuse university.

"Young women must change their attitude toward domesticity before they can be happy and efficient in their homes, declared Professor Macleod at a recent convention of the American Sociological Society in Chicago.

"The College Girl is not trained to take her place as a wife and mother. All her interest and ambition in college is directed away from the home.

"Intelligent young women resent the implication that they are only fit to cook the meals and wash the dishes. We can't go back to the days of our grandmothers, but the thing to do is to learn to go forward. In my opinion we need three new programs in women's education.

"First, education adapted to the triple demand made upon the women of the present, as a citizen, an individual and a family builder. Secondly, the eradication of the stigma of inferiority connected with the home. Third, to find a way to change the girl's present point of view."

A school teacher was very much annoyed by the continued mischievousness of one of her boys. At last she exclaimed in exasperation, "I wish I could be your mother for just one week."

"Very well, I will speak to father about it," responded the youngster coolly.

Whoever heard of autos ruining the younger generation? It's the other way about.

Civil Service Will Conduct Naval Exams

Senator William H. King announces that on March 23, at 9:00 a. m. in the Federal building at Salt Lake City, he will hold an examination to determine the appointee to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The candidate receiving the highest mark in the examination will receive the appointment as principal, while the next three will be appointed as alternates. The one accepted by the Naval Academy authorities will enter the academy in June.

The examination will be under the direction of the Civil Service Board. All those who wish to take the test are to get in touch with Senator King.

City Slicker—What does your son do?

Farmer—He's a bootblack in the city.

City Slicker—Oh, I see, you make hay while the sun shines.

—Purple Cow

He may have been a ham, but his sugar cured him.

Steward—Is there anything I can get for you sir?

Half Overboard—Yes, I'd like a small island, please.

BANYAN PICTURES

In spite of the fact that it was announced last Friday in devotional, and an article appeared in the "Y" News concerning the final date for pictures for the Banyan, Larson's Studio has not been over crowded. The students have responded fairly well, but for those few who haven't made an appointment yet are urged to do so. All clubs and social units must be taken and finished by February 15th. Absolutely the last possible date.

The Banyan pictures are almost complete, and we want to finish it up and make the finest Banyan ever printed in the history of the school, a volume that one will think more of and enjoy looking into more than ever before.

"Y" SYMPHONY RETURNS FROM SOUTHERN TOUR

Returning from a very successful and highly pleasing tour, the Little Symphony Orchestra completed their concert tour Friday evening and returned to Provo Saturday noon. Twenty-four musicians made the journey, going by bus, leaving last Wednesday morning and returning three days later. Mr. Robertson and all the players are jubilant over the success of the trip.

Two concerts were given daily, Wednesday afternoon, Mt. Pleasant, Wednesday evening, Salina; Thursday, Richfield and Monroe; Friday, Manti and Gunnison. Concerts usually lasted two hours, and although modified to suit the occasion, the following in the main, comprised the program:

"To a Wild Rose," MacDowell, arranged by Robertson; string quartet. "Swanee River," arranged by Karl Busch. String Orchestra.

"Gavotte," by Popper, and arranged by a "Y" student, Wesley Pearce. Cello solo by G. Buggert.

"Andante and Minuetto," from "The Surprise Symphony," by Haydn; "The Calm," from Wm. Tell Overture by Rossini, orchestral selections.

"Asleep in the Deep," bassoon solo, arranged by Prof. Sauer, and played by him.

"Schon Rosemarin," by Kriesler, arranged by Robertson, violin solo by Eugene Jacobsen.

"Oberon Overture," by Weber, and "Evolution of Dixie" by Lake, both by orchestra.

At Richfield Roy Fugal made such a hit with an impromptu reading, "Bones," that it was repeated the following evening.

At each presentation Mr. Robertson created interest by a short explanation and demonstration of the instruments, emphasizing as more unusual, the flute, oboe, French horn, viola and bassoon. The theme of each selection was also briefly sketched. Each program closed with "Evolution of Dixie," and opened with "To a Wild Rose."

The wedding ceremony was moving along smoothly until the parson asked the bride if she would obey her husband. She replied: "Do you think I am crazy?"

And the groom, who appeared to be in a daze, piped up, "I do!"

"DOWN THE MIDDLE PATH"

"Folks travel mostly in two paths," said an old sage the other day. Upon being questioned further, he elucidated the remark by saying: "You can be so careful that you'll never owe anybody anything—nor ever have much. Or you can owe everybody something and never have anything. My idea is to take the middle path. Owe some money, but not too much. Folks, like hosses, always work better when they're pulling a nice size load. Yes, sir, I'm always in debt—yet I'm always solvent. I strike the middle path and traveling seems just right there to me."

Your load can be too heavy and tire you out, or it can be so light that it is uninteresting. Strike "the middle path" and you'll have the best traveling, for then you can pull over the biggest hills with your full load, and still be able to enjoy yourself at the end of your trip.

They rope off the aisles at a wedding so the bridegroom can't get away.

Here is one way to test your loyalty to your job: Suppose your boss were out of town and the team were playing at home—would you work?

"Did you get home alright last night sir?" asked the conductor.

"Of course, why not?" came back the passenger.

"Well, when you got up to give your seat to the lady last night you were the only two people in the car."
